HUDSON IS AGAIN CONVICTED AFTER JURY COMPROMISE

Severity of Sentence Reduced In Compromise by Members of Jury

VERDICT AFTER 22 HOURS

Hudson To Again Go Back To San Quentin To Serve From One Year To Life

F. J. Hudson, who won an appeal of his conviction last March as one of the two bandits who held up an Upland service station operator, is going back to San Quentin, this time to serve from one year to life.

In his first trial, Hudson was found guilty of robbery in the first degree, carrying a penalty of from five years to life, and yesterday in Superior Judge Charles L. Allison's court, he was again convicted.

Accomplice To Serve Sentence Hudson's accomplice in the holdup, Ronald Mathis, was likewise convicted last March and is serving a first degree robbery sentence in the penitentiary. Mathis is expected to serve his sentence without an appeal.

Deadlocked for nearly 22 hours the jury at 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon compromised on a verdict of guilty of robbery in the second degree in Hudson's case. The verdict, however, was reached after the jury stood 11 to one for conviction for several hours.

Prior to the balloting on a second degree robbery verdict, the vote was eight to four for conviction on a first degree robbery charge. A verdict on first degree robbery as charged in the complaint against Hudson was hopeless, it was stated by a juror, following the dismissal of the jury.

Attorney A. S. Maloney, who with Attorney J. R. Rensch, defended Hudson, gave notice of appeal. Hudson will appear before Judge Allison for sentence Saturday morning and at that time Attorney Maloney will make formal motion for a new trial.

Hudson spent several months in San Quentin on his former conviction while awaiting a decision on his appeal.

Circumstantial Evidence Convicts The fact that no evidence was presented at Hudson's trial to show that he actually held the gun used in the robbery, in which Floyd Sabin was robbed of $89, prompted the jury to compromise on the second degree robbery verdict, it was stated. A gun was used in the holdup but it was not shown in court that it was in the hands of Hudson.

Hudson was convicted on somewhat circumstantial evidence. Sabin said he thought he recognized the voice of one of the bandits as that of Hudson's, but did not definitely determine in his own mind that it was Hudson until a few days following the robbery he received a letter from Hudson, mailed in the northern part of the state, containing a $1 bill with a peculiar marking and which he said he recognized as one of the bills stolen in the holdup. This bill was sent to Sabin to satisfy a small account that Hudson had at the service station.

The defense sought to offset the state's evidence with the statement by Hudson that he was in Madera on the date of the robbery. Several witnesses were presented to substantiate Hudson's statement, being brought here from Madera and adjoining sections. The testimony of two of these witnesses, however, conflicted with that of Hudson as to a date that he called at a garage in Madera to have some repairs made on his automobile.

District Attorney George H. Johnson and Chief Deputy C. O. Thompson prosecuted the case.

The jury included, Edna G. Bromilow, Dick Palm, Loren M. Bemis, James C. Stewart, John J. Cottrell, Jacob W. Allen, William S. Avery, Herbert Chandler, Carl Dodson, Fred C. Holland, E. S. Johnson and D. R. Kilbourne.

Orange Thieves Take More Fruit Off Trees

Orange thieves carried out a bold piece of stealing on Sunday night when they entered the grove of David Vashinder on East Ninth street in the Alta Loma district.

Several rows of trees were practically stripped of all the fruit on their branches and Mr. Vashinder estimates the value of the oranges to be in the neighborhood of $40. As near as he can figure the thieves took a couple of dozen boxes of fruit before their wants were satisfied. The tract has no dwelling upon it and there are no houses near, so thieves were able to follow their operations without detection. Investigation made on Monday revealed where a truck had been driven into the grove and loaded. The police department was notified of the theft and both night and day motor officers are keeping watchful eyes on the ranch districts.

Similar thefts are reported in the past few days from both Claremont and Covina and police departments are doing everything in their power to keep this form of thievery at a minimum.

W. S. AVERY IS NAMED PRESIDENT

New Board of Directors of C. of C. Organize—Wm. Atchley, Vice-Pres.; Kirk, Sec.

W. S. Avery of the Upland Hotel is today president of the Upland Chamber of Commerce, having been elected last night at the organization meeting of the new board of directors which was held at the American Legion home, both the new directors and last year's directors being present.

William Atchley was selected as vice president and Clair Kirk of the Men's Shop was named secretary.

A letter from W. C. Scheu, who was elected a director at the annual meeting, stated that owing to the fact he expected to be out of town the greater part of the coming summer, he would be unable to serve. Mr. Scheu expressed his appreciation at being elected and his regret at finding it necessary to resign. A. J. Nielson, who received next highest in the vote for directors, was appointed to fill the vacancy.

President W. S. Avery will announce his committees for the year within a few days.

The board of directors of the chamber to serve during the coming year are as follows: Wm. Atchley, C. A. Baeuerlen, Jas. Goodban, W. W. Horak, Milton Huxtable, J. E. Sargent, W. S. Avery, F. L. Atwood, Clair Kirk, Roy Creighton, Norman Lawson, A. J. Nielson.

Miss Franz Talks To Religious Ed. School

Miss G. Franz, one of the pupils in Mrs. Laura Haugh's class in Public Speaking at LaVerne college was the speaker before the assembly at the school of religious education at the Presbyterian church on Tuesday evening.

Miss Franz told in an interesting manner the correct way to tell a story, so as to clearly demonstrate or bring out the main features in a religious narrative.

Among the points that the speaker emphasized were: First, that one must never lose sight of the lesson to be taught; second, that the story must be told in such a manner as to hold the listener's attention, never letting that interest lag for one second; third, as Miss Franz said, "just let them lose the trend of the story for a minute and your work is all in vain."

Two other pupils from Mrs. Haugh's class accompanied Miss Franz and they too told the correct method to employ in telling stories to Sunday school classes.

The religious school which numbers one hundred pupils is meeting with continued success and will be held weekly for two weeks more with Dr. R. C. Stone of the Presbyterian church as dean of the school.

BOND ISSUE TO BE UP TO VOTERS AT SPRING ELECTION

$10,000 is Asked For Purchase Of New Fire Truck and Other Equipment

BIDS FOR PIPE RECEIVED

Permit For Filling Station at Euclid Avenue and Twelfth Street is Denied

Upland voters are asked to vote at the coming spring election on the question of bonding the city in the amount of $10,000 for the purpose of buying a new and modern fire truck and other needed equipment for the Upland fire department.

This was decided at last night's meeting of the city council when City Clerk E. C. Mehl was instructed to take the necessary steps for submitting the question to the voters. With the rapid growth of the city during recent years, it was pointed out that Upland's fire fighting equipment is now considerably inferior to that of other cities of similar size. It is believed that the proposed issue will be carried by a large majority.

Five bids for the purchase of 5000 feet of pipe to be used in extending the municipal water system on Mountain avenue between Twentieth and Twenty-fourth street. Two of the bids, that of the National Cast Iron Pipe Co., and that of the United States Cast Iron Pipe Co., were found to be identical, 41.7 cents per foot. Action on awarding the contract was delayed until it could be determined if the two companies would be willing to split the bids, each furnishing 2500 feet of pipe to the city.

Request of Donald Brady for permission to erect a gasoline filling station at the northeast corner of Euclid avenue and Twelfth street (Foothill boulevard) was denied. The city zoning ordinance forbids erection of commercial structures on Euclid north of Eleventh street.

Residents on the east side of Euclid avenue between Nineteenth street and Twenty-second street petitioned for the installation of fire hydrants in that district. The matter was referred to City Engineer R. G. Manley.

W. E. Estes was granted permission to install an ornamental electroliner opposite his property at G street and Laurel avenue, the city to furnish the electric current. It was further agreed that in the event the city later installs an electroliner system in that neighborhood, that Mr. Estes will be re-imburshed.

The Upland Lions club entered a request that the council take action to post signs at the intersection of Tenth street and the San Bernardino road in order that eastbound motorists may be directed to take the latter highway, instead of following Tenth street to the wash, as now frequently happens. The matter was referred to the street department.

Reforestation Is Vital Need Of Day Is Belief Of Speaker Before C. Of C.

One hundred and seventy-five sat down to dinner at 6:45 last Friday night at the Upland Woman's Club, the event being the annual meeting and banquet of the Upland Chamber of Commerce. With President J. E. Sargent presiding as toastmaster the program proved a most interesting one as he introduced the speakers and their subjects with a bit of humor indicating the progress of the year's work.

During the dinner six musicians from the community orchestra gave a program of classical music, each number being heartily applauded. The dinner itself was a delight for the members of the Woman's Club had prepared an unusual menu and it was served without delay. Following the dinner President Sargent presented the members of the board of directors and then a director or some member spoke on some special feature of the year's work.

Speeches on Different Subjects F. H. Manker spoke on the city planning commission, advising that some systematic procedure be adopted and followed during the coming years in order to accomplish the desired result.

Jas. Dinger told of the barbecue at San Antonio park when 3000 people gathered there at the official presentation of the park to the people. Mr. Dinger was generalissimo of that event.

E. C. Mehl spoke briefly of the new bridge path, the building of the riding academy and the results obtained thus far in their establishment here.

WINE BOTTLE FOUND
BEFORE IT EXPLODES

Although Jesus Molino hid a gallon bottle of wine in the oven of a stove in which he had just built a fire when a raiding party of Upland and Cucamonga officers swooped down on his residence to the southwest of Upland the first of the week, the bottle was discovered just as the bottle was about to blow up.

Claiming that he had the wine for his health's sake, Molino entered a plea of not guilty to a charge of violating the Wright act when taken before Judge James Sharp. His trial was set for February 7 and in county jail, he is held in the county jail.

Officers J. A. Larson, C. S. Lehman, Frank Freeman and L. E. Krommeyer conducted the raid.

542 Registered at Upland Jail Five hundred and forty-two persons have been lodged in the Upland city jail for varying periods of time since June 22, 1923. It was announced today by Chief of Police J. F. Sawyer, following a check of jail register, which was inaugurated on the above named date. Most of those placed in the local jail during the period of a little more than four and a half years were arrested for drunkenness, disturbing the peace, assault, illegal possession of liquor and the like.

YOUNG MOTHER IS CLAIMED BY DEATH

Grim messenger entered the home of Hubert L. Manker, 595 Laurel avenue, with amazing swiftness Wednesday morning, when Mrs. Manker was stricken with death even as she was picking up Shirley, her 11-days-old daughter, and first-born, to give the child her morning bath.

Mrs. Manker, who was 28 years of age, fell in a swoon and, all efforts to revive her failing, she succumbed a few minutes later. Death was due to embolism, caused by a small blood clot lodging in the artery of the lung in her case.

Mrs. Manker, who before her marriage a few years ago was Miss Myrtle Davis, had resided here for 13 years and was popular in a wide circle of friends to whom news of her sudden death came as a great shock. Beside her widower, who is a member of one of Upland's oldest and most respected families, and her infant daughter, Mrs. Manker is survived by four brothers.

BODIES INVITED AS ORANGE SHOW GUEST

Editors and Wives Invited—Other Organizations are Also Guests

The California Newspaper Publishers association will be guests of the National Orange show in San Bernardino on February 18th. A party of more than 200 editors and their wives will be in attendance, according to R. H. Mack, manager of the show.

A noon day meeting will be held at the California Hotel with Tobias Larson, newly elected president of the publishers organization, presiding for the first time. An interesting program is being planned through the co-operation of the orange show and the publishers association.

The Commercial Secretaries association of Southern California will assemble for a meeting at the same time in the same hotel, the two organizations interests being largely in the same field of endeavor. The publishers association reunion has been an event at the National Orange show for many years.

Everything is humming about the orange show in readiness for its opening, Thursday night February 16. Governor C. C. Young will open the show. An invitation will be extended to Gov. Young to fly from Los Angeles to San Bernardino but whether Gov. Young will accept the invitation is problematical. It is said that the Governor is inclined still to use the automobile for fast transportation.

Announcement is made that there are 20 feature exhibits in the show in addition to 20 huge rack displays in the fruit section. There are 300 exhibitors in the industrial and heavy machinery department.

Lions Order News Sent To Uplander In Paris

What's the best way for a wanderer to keep in touch with his old home town? The Upland Lions club has solved this question and this week the News is being sent to A. Bradford Whitney, Upland rancher, who is living temporarily in Europe while members of his family are in school in Switzerland.

The Upland Lions have ordered the News sent to Mr. Whitney with their compliments during his absence. His address is Paris, France, care American Express Co., 11 rue Scribe. Letters tell part of the story, other papers tell another part, but there's nothing like the home paper to keep absent ones in touch with their home, think the Lions. Remembrance of Mr. Whitney displays thoughtfulness on the part of the club and shows the faith they have in the News as a link across the seas.

In the same way that the News takes its weekly message to Mr. Whitney in France it brings Upland's news to you. Remember it's your home paper and the new publishers are striving to improve it weekly.

HALF A MILLION
TREES TREATED

Horticulturists Plan Meet For War on Red Spider and Other Pests

More than half a million citrus trees in the Upland district were treated for the prevention of scale and red spider during the year 1927, according to figures made public today by J. E. Anderson, deputy county horticultural inspector.

Increasing prevalence of the red spider pest in this vicinity is giving citrus men considerable concern, according to Mr. Anderson, who announced plans for a mass meeting of growers at an early date to discuss the situation. So far, spraying is the only remedy which has proven efficacious for the pest. Fumigation destroys scale, but not the spider.

Figures given out by Mr. Anderson today show 3,150 acres fumigated for scale during the year; 2,000 acres sprayed for scale, and 1,410 acres sprayed for red spider.

There were 281,377 trees treated by fumigation for scale; 180,368 trees sprayed for scale, and 124,301 trees treated by spraying for red spider. This makes a grand total of 586,046 trees treated in various methods for the control of citrus pests.

The average cost for fumigating is 40 cents a tree, while spraying for the red spider is done at an average cost of approximately 20 cents a tree.

Until recently, the red spider has attacked only orange trees, but recent observations show it also attacking lemon groves.

Deciduous Fruit
Market Improving

Announcement yesterday by officials of the Cutler-Lobingier Canning company of Ontario and Pomona that they have shipped more canned fruits to the eastern markets during December and January, just past, than for the corresponding months of any previous season, was looked upon here today that the deciduous fruit industry is well on the road for a return to normalcy.

Lack of sufficient demand for deciduous fruits during recent years has been hard on local deciduous fruit ranchers, but packers declare indications good for much brighter times.

The Cutler-Lobingier people have not only been shipping to all parts of the United States, but have consigned several shipments to Great Britain as well. Shipments are expected to continue heavy throughout the present month.

As a result of the increased demand, deciduous growers have high hopes for good prices for their fruit during the coming season.

TWO HUNDRED AT ANNUAL MEETING OF UPLAND C. OF C.

Geo. H. Barnes of Green Cross Society Principal Speaker—
J. E. Sargent, Toastmaster

YEAR'S WORK REVIEW

Community Orchestra Members Give Program of Classical Music—Dinner by Ladies

George H. Barnes, of the Green Cross association of Los Angeles, an organization having for its object the preservation of plant and animal life, reforestation and restoration of nature in general, was the principal speaker before the annual meeting of the Upland Chamber of Commerce last Friday night. His subject was one of the most interesting that a speaker could choose before an assembly. The speaker stressed the importance of trees in sustaining natural conditions, such as existed here before the advent of man with the destructive agencies that followed his occupation of the soil.

Mr. Barnes asserted that trees preceded the coming of man and that their destruction was the cause of the cessation of rainfall and consequent desert conditions that now covers so much of the earth's surface. He believed that reforestation was the most important question that faced the country today. Vast areas could be brought back to pristine conditions if trees were planted, and then rain would be brought back to these parched areas. True, a great percent of working men of the country were engaged in pursuits that involved the use of wood, and there was good reason why trees should be cut and made into articles necessary to human wants, but they should be felled only under government supervision so that no waste might be inflicted. He knew what he was talking about, he said, when he asserted that timber had been destroyed by wanton commercialism that held sway in so many parts of the country for so many years. It is the hope of the organization that he represents to so guard and protect the forests that commercialism will come to an end and with systematic procedure rainfall will result from the restoration of the forests.

Details as to how reforestation shall be effected are wanting, but the speaker made it plain that his association had a definite plan and knew the methods to be followed. The object aimed at would not be attained without the lapse of time, but a start must be made and a fixed purpose must be held constantly in view.

A case cited is worth mentioning. In the state of Nebraska there were large cracks in the earth during long dry spells in the summer. There was no rainfall and the inland desert was regarded as permanent. But J. Sterling Morton, the first secretary of agriculture, in Cleveland's cabinet, induced the people to adopt arbor day. The 25th of April was set apart for the planting of trees, not only in that state, but in all states. The result of the observance of arbor day was the unexpected extension of artificial groves and the practical reforestation of vast areas of the so-called American desert. Rainfall doubled in that territory and to this day rain falls with seasonal regularity and the country is dotted with patches of timber. He did not visualize the covering of desert mountains with trees like the primeval forests. But he succeeded in making his hearers think about the necessity of conserving the trees that are, and of planting trees with the return of every season. The address was fruitful in bringing people to realize the importance of restoring the beauties of nature and conserving the things that yet remain.

Co. Lindberg, on his flight to Venezuela, had some thrills, experiences that might have brought down a less skilled flyer. The nation loves Lindbergh but fear exists that he may take his pitcher to the well once too often. Let's hope not.

It puzzles the ordinary layman to read about conference after conference to outlaw war, then to note recommendation after recommendation for increased navies and armaments preparatory for the next war.

What else could they do? Dispatches say that both senators and every Republican member of congress from this state have declared themselves in favor of Hoover for president. In other words, they have heard from the people "back home."

George M. Blair of the Corona Independent is one of the cleverest writers we have found in this neck of the woods. He has distinctive characteristics that are brought out in his editorial columns, and his philosophy of life is bracing to the spirit. The Corona Independent is always interesting.

According to departmental authority at Washington the agricultural outlook of the country is encouraging. We are promised industrial prosperity, now if the weather man does his part and the soil yields up in harmony with other sources the proverbial let-up in business on presidential years will become ancient history.

Social activities are suspended at Stanford because of the discovery of several cases of infantile paralysis among the student body. There seems to be no reason why the curricula of the various departments may not be pursued. Class rooms may show the usual signs of activity even if social functions are slowed down a bit.

California extends sympathy to Florida where Jack Frost has invaded the peninsula and blighted its blossoms and its hopes. It seems as if that land has been the brunt of cruel fate since the old ocean rolled in over Miami. Why, even the prohibition enforcement at Washington is taxed beyond capacity to head off the rum runners. And so it goes, troubles never come singly.

As the Havana conference proceeds Latin-American countries are more and more convinced that the United States is their friend, their big and protecting brother. Even the rambunctious senators who talk so much about our so-called imperialism are unable to make enemies of those little republics.

Ohio keeps an organization at Washington to maintain opposition to the Boulder dam. The latest objection against the project is that it would take the government into the power business. The persistent opposition from the Ohio organization suggests the probability of a power trust at its back. It's strange how chary the power trust is about the government becoming a competitor.

Old folks among the population of the country are on the increase in numbers. This is one result of the prolongation of life which has come through greater efficiency in the medical profession and more sanitary and scientific conditions in living. Authorities assert that one person in every twenty is 65 years of age or more. Nearly 80 per cent are dependent upon support of the public or their relatives.

Another objection has been raised against Hoover for president. The charge is made that when he was married a Catholic priest performed the ceremony. How shocking, a man so tolerant as to be not very particular about the creed of the officiating clergyman must run on a broad gauge track. It may be recalled how opposition sprung up against Taft in 1908 when it was discovered that he belonged to the Unitarian church.

The school board of Pasadena has yielded to the sensibilities of fond parents and decided to waive physical examination of children whose parents object to the formality. The board must be made up of molluscoides thus to devitalize a rule that all educators should favor. If children are not physically fit, they have no business in school where they may contaminate other children. The rule thus weakened ought to have been retained and enforced.

The English language is an aggressive force wherever brought in contact with native tongues. Its spread wherever Saxon civilization has taken root is noted throughout the progress of national growth. It is noted how the "Koukou," a newspaper printed in the native tongue in Honolulu, has suspended giving way to newspapers printed in the English language. Languages like other forces in the progress through the centuries has qualities affecting national life. The English language has proven its superiority as a civilizing agent.

We are told that the gift of $1,500,000 by Giannini to the University of California for the establishment of an agricultural foundation was accepted by the unanimous vote of the university authorities. Why, of course a gift of that size for such a vital purpose would be accepted by any body of sane men. Agriculture is one of the vast industries of this state and of the nation and too much money can not be given for its promotion. If the good brother has a generous streak next year he has the consent of a grateful public to double the amount, then to double it again.

Is that so? One who claims to know says that not one person, not a single person, in the lime light at Hollywood is happy. They are a discontented, poorly satisfied lot, yearning for other things and other surroundings, waiting in anguish for the whirligig of time to bring in new changes. Doubtless the assertion is too sweeping. Nobody knows how everybody else feels, but an impression of general conditions may be easily formed. Professional success can not bring happiness no matter how remunerative unless grounded upon the old fashioned virtues, sometimes lost sight of.

Anybody who has observed intensive agricultural operations in the Imperial valley can understand why this state opposes any restriction on Mexican labor upon which so many are dependent. Native labor will not get down and do the knee work necessary to the cultivation of so many crops. Men are willing to stand or sit while at work, but when it comes to getting down on their knees and working that way hour after hour, it is a different question. There is some kind of work that natives will not do.

The new president of Pomona college, Dr. Charles K. Edmunds, is one of the noted educators of the land. He comes to his new charge with a background that places him on a footing equal to the best men in any of the institutions of higher learning. His years spent at the head of Lingham university, Canton, China, give him a varied experience that better qualifies him for his task. His most recent connection was an important position in the organization of the John Hopkins University, Baltimore. He assumes a position of responsibility, but he is equal to its demands.

A neighboring exchange laments the effects that a recall election have left in its community. Fractional fights have brought about a division that threatens to set back the town fully ten years. And the existing administration was sustained. The recall law allows disgruntled and mischievous busybodies to stir up strife and use public funds in inflicting injury upon officials who in most cases are doing their duty faithfully and well. There are rare cases in which the recall may work for public weal. But good things in the hands of bad citizens are often weapons of destruction.

Tablets found some time ago on Mount Sinai are pronounced genuine and have been recently interpreted. That reminds us of late discoveries in King Tut's tomb and its various annexes. That old tyrant lived in the most lavish luxury such as can not be imagined in these days of real things. There was no middle class then, just rulers and slaves, and the old king lived off the fat of the land. Kings could not get by with such things now.

TWO NAME PRESIDENTS
New York Times: Why do the newspaper correspondents still slip a "C" into Mr. Hoover's name? To be sure, he was christened Herbert Clark Hoover, but he long ago dropped the middle initial from his signature.

It is astonishing how many Presidents in the making have succumbed to the lure of the double spondee. Woodrow Wilson, after experimenting with various combinations of names and initials dropped the Thomas when he was still a student at the University of Virginia.

Cleveland's baptismal Christian name was Stephen Grover, but he will go down to history as simply Grover Cleveland. Similarly President Coolidge had John for a first name, but it seldom appears in print. There is

The abandonment of all efforts to secure a Lowden delegation from the state of New York reveals nothing new. There have been sporadic outcroppings of Lowden sentiment in that state but nothing that gave encouragement to his loyal supporters. New York is an industrial state and the agricultural minority that naturally would rally to Lowden never stood a ghost of a show to win delegates. All the same the nominee will encounter opposition if the things that Lowden stands for are not given heed in the national convention.

Sir Douglas Haig, just passed away, was one of the three commanding generals during the World War. The splendid operation given Marshal Foch and General Pershing was worthy of the great British commander. He was representative of the highest type of English character and maintained the bearing of a great soldier throughout that historical conflict. Since the close of the war he has been modestly assisting in the movements that cared for and provided for the humble soldiers who suffered the fortunes and its devastation. He will go down in history as one of Britain's great soldiers.

FARMER J. C. PENNEY
J. C. Penney, the merchant prince, is engaged in developing an agricultural project down in Florida that may or may not have an effect on the future of agriculture. He has bought a large tract of land and the object of the development is to have numerous small farms that are to be made as productive as the tracts cultivated by the average farmer of the west and middle west. By scientific methods he proposes to make more than one blade of grass grow where only one grew before. He will make a dozen of them grow.

In the first place scientific methods are to be applied. There has been great waste, specialists have shown, in the manner in which seed beds have been prepared. The kind and amount of fertilizer, the manner of cultivation, care of the matured crops, marketing, and kindred things are subjects well worthy of attention of the scientists. Mr. Penney has placed these matters in the hand of specialists and when his project is matured and operation starts production will be increased many fold.

After all, is the problem solved when production has reached the high point? There are two things in any industry that must be taken into consideration, production and marketing. That is as true in agriculture as in the industrial enterprises. One of the greatest problems before congress now is how to dispose of the surplus of the soil's production. At times markets are glutted by over production, and prices fall to points below the first cost, at other times there is a shortage and prices soar aloft. Generally speaking prices are below the cost of production and producers have no guaranty for their efforts. Intensive handling of the soil and additions to the cultivable area has wrought widespread havoc by over production in undertakings of all sort. There is scarcely a field in which over production has not brought about inadequate prices.

In stimulating production, Mr. Penney is attempting to solve only half the problem. If fruits, vegetables and even staples are thrown on a market already supplied, how about the prices? How about the demand? He must turn his attention to the matter of consumption before the logical solution can be reached. There will be a sure demand for products when our own people become consumers, when they use more of the things they produce and send abroad for less. Mr. Penney must direct his researches toward marketing and increased consumption of the things he proposes to produce in his project of scientific farm development. He is a man of action. Good results may be looked for.

a dignity about the spondee that the Greeks recognized when they gave it that name, symbolic of the slow measured melodies that accompanied libations to the gods—such as politicians now make in their way.

EXCELLENT SPECIAL EDITION
There is no more creditable publication, mechanically and editorially, than George R. Barker's Beverly Hills Citizen. It is a cock full of interesting matter, carefully prepared and printed, and appears in an amble book paper every issue. The special edition issued in January equals anything ever issued from a newspaper office on the Pacific coast. Mr. Barker has reason to feel proud of the product of his mechanical department. Judging from the wide range of high class advertisements and the generous notice given large enterprises in the Beverly Hills district, Brother Barker has behind him the support of an appreciative clientele.

Other Editors' Ideas:

WE "LITERARY" PEOPLE
Van Nuys Tribune: Perhaps the pendulum is beginning to swing the other way. An eastern newspaper made an investigation and found that magazines pertaining to the home, care of children, and so forth, led all others in popularity, but second in sales came the so-called "Confession" magazines. Art journals were third, western stories fourth, physical culture magazines fifth, and detective stories sixth. Most dealers said there was little call for literary magazines.

THE JOY OF INCOME TAX
Claremont Courier: And just as we thought 1927 was out of the way and could concentrate on carrying on with new year's resolutions, here comes the income tax blank. Armistice Day is one of both sorrow and joy, but the income tax blank brings only grief and vexation. Not that the amount most Claremonters have to pay is burdensome. It's the probing into private affairs that is annoying. It's easy enough to keep a set of books to satisfy yourself, but it's something else keeping accounts to suit Uncle Sam. Not but that he is perfectly fair about it all. He is pleased to know your business has prospered sufficiently to help him pay that 30 billion war debt. The annoyance comes in sweating $20 worth making out the report to find in the end you owe the government $4.98.

WIDER ROADS NEEDED
Glendora Gleaner: The fact that auto registration in California will pass the 2,000,000 mark this year shows more clearly that highways must be planned in advance to meet the growth of traffic. A local instance is the bridge between Azusa and Monrovia. Plans for this bridge were drawn and the bridge was built. It was all right when planned, but traffic had grown so rapidly that the bridge was entirely inadequate and today is almost a menace to motorists. A broad highway leads to it and then a narrow roadway is dangerous. The road problem is a hard one to solve in California. Highways thought to be years in advance are completed. The great growth of heavy trucking adds another problem. Light roads are soon pounded to pieces. It is a waste of money to build them. Roads must be wider and heavier if they are to last.

REDLANDS BACKS JUDGE
Friends of Judge F. A. Leonard have asked the News to reproduce the following editorial which is taken from the Redlands Facts: The law in California as to the election of Judges of the Superior Court is that when a Judge shall have been appointed, such appointment shall continue until the next general election, at which election a Judge shall be regularly elected. That is the situation in which San Bernardino county finds itself this year of a general election. Judge F. A. Leonard was appointed to the bench, when the Legislature created the third Judgeship for San Bernardino county. He can serve under such appointment only until the next general election in November. If the people wish him to continue in the office they must elect him to it then.

The Facts believes it is voicing what is practically the unanimous desire of the people in saying that Judge Leonard should be placed upon the Superior Bench of the county by their ballots at the election next November—and continue there indefinitely, for that matter. The choice of Mr. Leonard by the Governor as one of the three Judges for this county was an especially happy one. Indeed, it is seldom that with the small salaries paid Superior Judges in California a man of Mr. Leonard's attainments and character can be persuaded to accept such a place. We are, indeed, fortunate as a county to have him there.

The method of electing him is that outlined in the general election laws of the state for non-partisan offices. His name should be placed upon the primary ballot by petition. He can be elected at the primary in case he shall receive a majority of all the ballots then cast. At least, his name will be the only one of those contesting at the primary to be printed upon the ballot, and that is a practical equivalent to election.

Redlands is the home of Judge Leonard. Here he has lived all the years of his law practice. He was our City Attorney for a long term. The firm of which he was a member was the leading law firm of the county, having its headquarters at the county seat. But here is where the petitions should start, for Redlands looks upon Judge Leonard as her representative upon the Superior Bench insofar as that term can be applied to one whose residence is here.

Redlands asks for the return of Judge Leonard to the bench, to continue the fine career he has begun. We believe that the whole county will join in the movement next inaugurated. Seldom has an appointment of the kind been so thoroughly approved as this one was. Now it is the duty of the people to demonstrate such approval by continuing in office one so eminently fitted for work of that kind.

"I say! You gave me the right number! And the first time I asked for it!"

Operator (from force of habit): "Sorry."

Boomerang
"Old Hutchinson," one-time millionaire king of the Chicago wheat pit on the Board of Trade, and the man who taught the world how to corner the market, was given to dressing so poorly that his sons were ashamed at his threadbare appearance. One time one of his sons, knowing that his father would pay only a modest price for a garment of any kind, arranged with a tailor to make a fine garment for $75 and to tell the father the price was only $30, the son to make up the additional $45. The ruse worked all right, and the father on his visit to the barber shop was complimented on the excellence of the garment.

"What'll you give me for it?" said he to his admirers.

"Fifty dollars," was the response. "It's yours." The coat was delivered at once, and the father on meeting his son said: "Say, son, get me another of those $30 overcoats. I've sold the other one for $50, and I am thinking of going into the clothing business.

Pilgrims' Progress
One of the best stories that came out of the convention of Kansas school teachers at Topeka recently was:

"Now, children," asked the teacher, after reciting the story of the landing of the Pilgrim Fathers at Plymouth Rock, "who can tell me what that group of men and women was called?"

Long silence and deep thought on the part of the pupils. Finally a hand went up.

"The twelve apostles," shouted the youngster, with much pride.

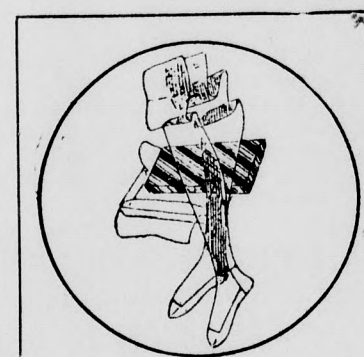

Keep the spare tire well inflated. It may be needed at any time.

Notes of Society

Mrs. Moore Entertains—
Mrs. Harold C. Moore entertained with a charmingly appointed dinner-bridge party on Tuesday at her home, 755 North Euclid avenue. Fragrant sweet peas were the flowers chosen by Mrs. Moore for her floral motif and bowls of these blossoms in the French, rose pink and lavender tones centered the individual tables at which the guests were seated. Following dinner the guests enjoyed an evening of auction bridge, prizes at the last scoring going to Mrs. Roy Weller and Mrs. E. C. Mehl.

Mrs. Moore's guest list included Mrs. Harold C. Moore, Mrs. W. H. Craig, Jr., Mrs. J. F. Sawyer, Mrs. E. C. Mehl, Mrs. R. B. Bordwell, Mrs. Paul R. Daggs, Mrs. Frank K. Nichols, Mrs. Roy Weller, Mrs. Robert Henderson, Mrs. Glenn Atwood, Mrs. Paul Bodenhamer, Mrs. O. E. Atwood, Mrs. P. H. McQuillen, Mrs. J. Lynward Graham and Mrs. Samuel Rowe.

Booster Banquet Is Successful

Members of the Ontario Woman's club realized close to $1000 from their second annual booster banquet given Tuesday evening at Hotel Ontario. The money thus raised will go to a fund to liquidate the mortgage on a handsome building site which the club recently purchased at Euclid avenue and El Morado court.

Geoffrey Morgan of Los Angeles, as the speaker of the evening, stressed the importance of providing worthwhile amusement for the young people of the community.

In the receiving line at the banquet event were Mrs. Benjamin F. Warner, club president; Mrs. Claude W. Randall and Mrs. Arthur Merle deBerard, first and second vice presidents, respectively. Mrs. Geoffrey Joseph Fleming, as chairman of the committee in charge, was largely responsible for the success of the affair.

Mrs. Littlewood Is Hostess—

With Mrs. William Littlewood as the hostess, the members of the Bethany Union Ladies Aid are enjoying an all day meeting at the church today.

Luncheon, which is usually a surprise affair, with each member contributing a favorite dish, has all been provided by Mrs. Littlewood and many women are present for the business session, luncheon and program.

The business meeting was called to order by the president, Mrs. C. E. Gamsby and the study circle convened at ten-thirty o'clock, instead of directly after lunch as has hitherto been the custom. Mrs. A. Millard led the morning devotionals. During the afternoon's social hour a talk by Mrs. Littlewood will feature the program and community singing will also be enjoyed.

Reading Circle With Mrs. Scheu—

Members of the Reading Circle enjoyed one of the most interesting and delightful sessions of their season Wednesday afternoon when they were entertained at the attractive home of Mrs. W. C. Scheu, Euclid avenue and Nineteenth street.

The afternoon's program was presented by Miss Lott, recently of New York City, but now a member of the faculty of the Glendora School for Girls. Miss Lott read extracts from "The Twelve Pound Look," that clever dramatic vehicle of Ethel Barrymore a few seasons ago, and then told a number of clever and charming stories, several of her own writing.

At a short business session presided over by Miss Aurelia Harwood, routine matters were given attention.

A delightfully informal social hour and tea closed the afternoon which was enjoyed by sixteen members of the circle.

Dinner at Nelson Home—

It was a happy day at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Nelson, 264 First avenue, on Sunday for this was the date on which Mr. Nelson and Mrs. Tiberg of Chino were celebrating birthday anniversaries. The hostess, Mrs. Nelson, chose masses of the brilliant gold acacia blossoms for her decorations and frilly crepe of a golden hue, added to the lovely effect.

Dinner was announced at two o'clock, a low bowl of the acacia blossoms centering the dining table, while tall candles and dainty nut cups filled with confections marked covers for the guests. Two delicious birthday cakes iced in white and yellow and each carrying the honor guests name across the top, were features of the last course and among those attending the affair were Mr. and Mrs. David Widmark, Mr. and Mrs. N. Anderson and their two children from Chino; Mr. and Mrs. Tiberg, Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Holmes and Mr. and Mrs. Ogran of Los Angeles; Otto Nelson and Erick Holstenon of Pomona.

Doris Riggs Has Birthday—
Little Doris May Riggs, who celebrated her fourth birthday anniversary last Saturday, was a dainty little hostess, when assisted by her mother, Mrs. Edward Riggs, she entertained a group of her small friends. The weather loaned his fairest weather for the auspicious occasion and Miss Doris entertained her small guests out of doors on the lawn, where games and stunts were staged.

At a signal from the hostess the little ones marched to the dining room where a delicious menu was served, a quaint centerpiece, consisting of a gorgeous birthday cake setting on a high stand forming the top of a circus tent. Ferocious animals (animal crackers) and gayly dressed little clown dolls added to the "circus" illusion and the small hostess and her guests enjoyed the affair.

The honoree received many attractive birthday remembrances and among those who came to wish her many happy returns of her birthday were Mr. and Mrs. J. N. Higgins and their children, John, Harriett and Bobby; Mr. and Mrs. C. J. Higgins, Mrs. D. A. Higgins all from Pomona and Lyla, Bobbie, Margaret and Dorene Riggs.

Mrs. McCartney Entertains—

Complimenting her house guest, Mrs. Irving T. Raab of Santa Maria, who with her husband is spending a few days here, Mrs. Ernest L. McCartney of Vista Drive, entertained with a smartly appointed tea on Tuesday. Fragrant blossoms made an attractive setting for the delightful affair and among those invited to meet the visitor were the members of the Frances Paul Girls and several other guests.

Mrs. Raab, who is well-known in educational and P-T. A. circles of the Northern part of the state gave a brief talk during the afternoon on "Child Training" which was greatly enjoyed.

Valentine Tea Smart Affair—

Red Hill Country club was the scene of a delightful bridge tea yesterday afternoon, it being the first affair of its kind this season. It was recently decided to change the date for the regular monthly afternoon party from the third Tuesday to the first Thursday of the month.

The Valentine motif predominated in the effective decorations and the lights of the ballroom, where the card tournament was staged, were softly shaded.

Presiding at the tea tables following the games were Mrs. Paul Wright, Nichols and Mrs. Jesse Wyland Heinecke. Mrs. Samuel B. Rowe presided over the distribution of attractive buffet trays. Dainty Valentines made effective score cards and table prizes were hand-bag perfume holders.

Mrs. William Kincaid has been selected as chairman of club teas and Miss Ruth Milliken served as hostesses chairman for yesterday's affair. Mrs. LeRoy A. Weller and Mrs. C. A. Bauerlen were in charge of the decorations and other members of the committee numbered Mrs. Walter E. Kincaid, Mrs. Welles Thompson Ross, Mrs. H. A. Hargraves and Mrs. Samuel B. Rowe.

At Cucamonga: The Girl Scouts of the Cucamonga school presented a pageant of the history of the American flag last Wednesday at Central school. In order to be a second class girl scout, each one must know the flag's history and this particular group of girls have learned much about their own flag as well as the foreign flags that were flown in this country before it became the United States of America.

The flag pageant was presented before an assembly of the Parent-Teachers association on the occasion of Father's Night.

At Etiwanda: The girl scouts of the Etiwanda troop are working on a candle service, which they will present on Sunday, February 12th at the Etiwanda church.

Court of Awards: All girl scout organizations are looking forward to and preparing for their Court of Awards which will be held at the Ontario junior high school Monday February 13th at 7:30 P. M. A beautiful program will be presented by the high school girls, the presenting of the scout badges to those who have been working so hard during the year for these prized merit badges and a campfire scene. This camp fire scene is better known to the scouts at "Memories of the Camp" and it is an annual ceremony with every scout in the district.

The Court of Awards is the outstanding feature staged by the Girl Scout organizations during the year and it is hoped that every father and mother as well as the girl scout's friends will attend.

Japanese Like Ice Cream
Japanese are very fond of soft drinks and ice cream, and the setting up of soda fountains is increasing each year, according to Halleck A. Butts, Tokio, commercial attache. It is believed that there are about twenty-five to thirty soda fountains in Tokio alone. Although that seems to be a small number in comparison with the number in operation in an American city of the same size, it shows a large gain within the last two or three years. Most of the soda fountains in use at present are of American make.

Force of Habit

OLD MINING CAMPS OF DESERT ABANDONED

Not the least interesting of the many abandoned mining camps in California is a group located on the Colorado Desert in Southern California, according to Phillip Johnston, who writes on "Derelicts of the Colorado Desert" in the February issue of Touring Topics, official publication of the Automobile Club of Southern California.

Among them are five, the careers of which were hectic and flushed, while the omnipotent stimulus of gold was present, but which have fallen into complete decay as the result of the cessation of mining activities. Included in the group are the once prosperous cities of La Paz, Picacho, Tumco, Dale and Calico.

Four Mexican prospectors in 1862 discovered the mines upon which La Paz was founded, some 90 miles above Yuma on the Arizona side of the river. Soon news of the find became widespread and activity was intensified.

Discoveries centered about Juan Ferrar Gulch, Old Man Placer, Middle Camp, La Cholla, Plumosa, and the New Waters—all dry placers. The site of La Paz is about four miles east of the Colorado River and six miles north of Ehrenburg. It was located on a large lagoon and all essential commodities were transported by steamship from the Gulf. At one time La Paz was strongly supported as the logical location for the capital of the territory of Arizona, but recurring floods, coupled with a diminishing supply of the precious metal, eventually brought its complete dissolution.

Picacho, 25 miles north of Yuma on the west side of the river, likewise was located by Mexican prospectors, almost contemporaneously with the discovery of La Paz. At one time Picacho bore the reputation of being the richest placer camp in California. Its social life, according to the author, was far more vivid and gay than that of La Paz, and the development of the lodes from which its placer gold came and the erection of stamp mills gave it a longer life than that enjoyed by its contemporaries. In the middle 90's, Mr. Johnston declares, the payroll amounted to more than $40,000 a month, which was paid in gold coin brought from Yuma by horseback.

The ghost town of Tumco, once known as Hedges, situated five miles north of Ogilby Station on the Southern Pacific, was a much later camp, discovered in the '90s. It rapidly developed to a point where its population approached 2,000, but today but a single man lives among the remains of the once roaring camp.

The ghost town of Calico, seven miles north of Daggett and the most northerly of the group, is better known to the casual motorist than any of the others. It took its name from the varicolored Calico Mountains, at the very feet of which it lies. Calico, Mr. Johnston relates, was in its prime some fifty years ago and experienced its prosperity chiefly as the result of the high value of silver which then was quoted at as much as $1.48 an ounce. Its mountains were laden with this metal and several fortunes that later figured in the industrial development of the Southland had their origins in Calico.

The fifth of the derelict cities of the Colorado is Dale, situated something like forty miles north of the Salton Sea and almost due south of Twenty-nine Palms. Dale operated at late as twenty years ago and its history is essentially the same as that of the typical abandoned mining camp—accelerated discovery, rapid deterioration and then the final stage, complete abandonment.

In his contribution Mr. Johnston recounts much of the local lore which made the old mining camps such colorful communities. Many of those described in the article are difficult of access for the ordinary motorist, but to those familiar with the desert, Mr. Johnston affirms, the entire group will prove intensely interesting.

King George has shown a liking for fried egg plant, which is seemingly shared by others of the royal family. Noticing an egg plant while visiting the Chelsea flower show with the queen the other day, the king remarked: "Ah, an egg plant! They are very good. Cut them up in thin slices and fry them. We always have them."

King George has shown a liking for fried egg plant, which is seemingly shared by others of the royal family. Noticing an egg plant while visiting the Chelsea flower show with the queen the other day, the king remarked: "Ah, an egg plant! They are very good. Cut them up in thin slices and fry them. We always have them."

As an architect, Herbert J. Gerhardt is without competition in this territory. He moved to Ontario from Monrovia more than a year ago. One of his productions here is the office building of Drs. The Tile Is Used

J. A. Anderson and Son, Ontario, are tile contractors and as the result of their efforts, many new houses present their products.

R. F. Leonard has selected Upland and Ontario as offering the best fields for new houses. He is today engaged in building houses to sell and he is offering attractive propositions. He also contracts to build houses and has made the statement that he will build "either on your lot or mine."

J. L. Neeb is one of the leading plasterers in this territory and as he has made many friends through efficient work, he is kept busy on contracts every day.

W. W. Waters, landscape engineer and florist, Ontario, is prepared to aid Uplanders with their beautification problems. Mr. Waters is an experienced landscaper and carries a large selection of plants and greenery for re-planting.

BUILDERS UNITE TO BOOST TRADE

Firms Offer Services in Planning, Erecting, Furnishing New Dwellings

Builders and contractors, an architect, a plumber, lumber yards, a painter, a plasterer, a furniture company, a hardware store and a landscape engineer united today to boost the building trade in Upland.

Their services in planning homes, in the selection of materials, in furnishing the new abodes and in beautifying the property were offered. Many of the firms listed on this page are veterans in dealing with the home builder. Several have seen Upland and other cities in the Orange Belt grow from small centers to thriving industrial and residential communities.

Pioneer Here

Holding the record among the contractors and builders for residence in and near Upland is G. E. Billington, a paint contractor, 2113 Euclid avenue. He located here more than 22 years ago. Living up to his motto, "Our Work Speaks for Itself," Mr. Billington has established a large patronage.

Due to their efficient work, Upland's contractors are known by private citizens and business firms in all parts of the Orange Belt. Frequently they receive work from persons in other cities and through years of service they have made many friends. W. C. Cline is known for his cement contracting and brick construction.

Two of the local firms are partnerships. "Betz and Wright" is composed of J. A. Betz and Glenn H. Wright. In the Modern Construction company are Al Ledig, Upland, and Robert Alexander, Cucamonga. Both of these firms have been formed for more than six years and modern homes are their products.

F. W. Williams is another Upland contractor that has played a prominent part in the construction of local homes and buildings. Other local builders are H. A.

Cooley, W. C. Jones and C. F. Eppler.

Expects Busy Season

Howard Roberts, plumber, on C street between Euclid and First avenue, is looking forward to a busy constructional season here and has already started on several 1928 projects.

Among the firms in this district handling paint and wallpaper are A. E. Wilcox, and the Ontario Paint and Paper company, both of Ontario.

F. H. Manker of Manker and Benson, local paint store and painters, is recognized as one of the most active men in the constructional field. The firm of C. M. Kellogg and Son, Ontario, is busy with several new houses to paint and decorate.

The J. W. Heinecke Lumber company and the Shattuck Lumber company are offering to give the builder and the prospective builder aid in selecting the best materials and in cutting building costs.

The Upland Lumber and Milling company is also prepared to furnish material and assistance for local people. The Hammond Lumber company expects to do much business in the roofing department. D. C. Anderson of Upland, formerly contracting for himself, is now manager of the Hammond company's roofing department.

Offers Inducements

Robert Weiss and company, hardware and furniture dealers here, are planning to aid local people with their painting problems and are offering special inducements to brighten up buildings here. The company carries a full line of building hardware, furniture and paints.

The Ontario Shade and Linoleum company has taken the lead in repairing and remodeling. Its store, 421 North Euclid avenue, Ontario, has been remodeled and given a new coat of paint and varnish. The company is urging residents in this territory to investigate its offerings when selecting goods for the home.

FEATURE EXHIBIT BEING ERECTED AT ORANGE SHOW

K. Placed on Upland's Display at Eighteenth National Orange Show by Manager

RED WILLIAMS BUILDER

H. Manker in Charge of Decorative Scheme, Assisted by Members of C. of C.

Upland's feature exhibit, which is a miniature of the famous California Tower of Paris, together with other necessary material, was placed on one of the W. E. Allen trucks and trailers this morning and was soon on its way toward San Bernardino where contractor Fred Williams will superintend its erection in the space allotted to the Upland Chamber of Commerce.

Manager Royal Mack of the Orange Show was in Upland Tuesday and attended the meeting of Upland Rotary Club and following the meeting viewed the exhibit which was built and wired lighting. Mr. Mack expressed entire satisfaction with the work and congratulated the committee on its work thus far. At Rotary meeting Mr. Mack asked to speak briefly on the Orange Show and he stated he believed that the show this year would compare very favorably with those of other years and some respects surpass other events.

As the show does not open until the 16th of February plenty of time will be afforded to do the construction very thoroughly. The oranges and other decorative effects will be placed before the show opens.

AUXILIARY HEADS IN BUSINESS MEET

Standing Committees For Hospital Organization To Be Named at Meeting

Plans and means for carrying out the work of the San Antonio Community Hospital auxiliary during the coming year, discussion tentative plans for a possible campaign for the sale of hospital tickets and other matters of business, occupied a meeting of auxiliary officers and committee heads Wednesday afternoon at the Euclid avenue home of the organization's president, Mrs. Edith C. Harwood.

Standing committees for the year are to be named at the regular meeting of the auxiliary to be held on the afternoon of February 20 in the hospital building. Selection of committee members occupied a portion of the meeting at Wednesday's session. At close of the business session, Mrs. Harwood served light refreshments.

Present at the business meeting were Mrs. Harwood, president; A. L. Weber, first vice president; Mrs. G. A. Hanson, second vice president; Mrs. Harwood, treasurer; Mrs. O. Chapman, secretary; Mrs. W. S. Foster, secretary; Mrs. W. G. Blaikie, chairman free bed committee; Mrs. Sanford Ballou, chairman entertainment committee; Mrs. John A. Fallis, chairman publicity committee, and Mrs. H. W. Flowers, chairman wage shop committee. Mrs. Harwood is chairman of the program committee as well as president of the organization.

20-30 Hears About Railroad Building

John Long was chairman of entertainment at the regular weekly meeting of the 20-30 Club Upland last Monday night. Mr. Long introduced Tweed Stone, president of the club, as the speaker of the evening.

Mr. Stone spoke on "Railroads" during the early history and its effects on present day methods of operation. Private contractors built the first railroads at a cost of $100,000 per mile and consequently made them as cheaply as possible. The tracks were laid up hill and down, through curves or grades. It was found to be costly to grade trains over these roads. They had to be straightened. Canadian Pacific spent $20,000,000 to tunnel the "Big Hill." It is removed a grade of 15 per cent and reduced the running time passenger trains forty minutes. Dean Babbitt of the O. K. Pit Exchange, was a guest and assisted by Marion Maxwell, who rendered several duets. Cecil Myers reported on the rightwood trip for the benefit of those who could not go last Saturday. Next meeting is to be employed's night.

THE COUNTY BOARD DOES THE BUSINESS

Chino School Bonds Sold To Los Angeles Bank, High Bidders

Appropriation of $1,250 by San Bernardino county as its part in a $50,000 fund being raised in Southern California in behalf of Boulder dam project has been asked at a meeting of the board of supervisors by a committee from San Bernardino, Orange and Riverside counties, appointed by the Boulder dam association of Southern California.

The committee appointed is composed of W. O. Harris and William Starke, of San Bernardino; Mayor Allen B. Wheaton, of Redlands; Colonel Finley, chairman of the board of supervisors of Orange county; Frank Tetley, of Riverside, and John W. Scott, field secretary of the Boulder dam association.

It was explained to the supervisors that there is further survey to be completed and other work in connection with the Colorado river project that requires additional funds. Los Angeles county alone plans to give $25,000 toward the total.

No action was taken on the request yesterday, but the matter will again come before the board for definite action next Monday.

The Chino school bonds of $25,000, dated Feb. 1, 1928, bearing interest at 5 per cent were sold to the United States National bank of Los Angeles, high bidders, with a premium of $976, with par and accrued interest to date of delivery.

Other bidders and their bids included R. E. Campbell & Co. of Los Angeles, $947.51; William R. Staats Co. of Los Angeles, $877; Anglo London Paris Co. of San Francisco, $853; Dean Witter & Co. of Los Angeles, $807.81; J. E. Edgerton Co. of Los Angeles, $843.38; the Elmer J. Kennedy Co. of Los Angeles, $888.88; Freeman, Smith, Camp Co. of Los Angeles, $885.90; Pierce Fair & Co. of San Francisco, $975; Bank of Italy of Los Angeles, $948.

Attorney Ralph E. Swing was reappointed for a three-year term on the county law library board. The supervisors approved maps for the bigger addition at Marston and Tract No. 2280 at Big Bear valley.

Licenses to operate billiard halls were granted to H. E. Medley, of Bloomington, and Caballero Frias, of Oro Grande.

CARE OF 30,000 RABBITS IS TOLD

Rotarians Hear Interesting Details of Important Local Industry

Members of the Upland Rotary club had their eyes opened to the magnitude of a local industry of which they had previously known little when at their luncheon meeting at The Sycamores Tuesday, A. Clark Freeman, manager of the Hillcrest Rabbitry, recited interesting details of the care of some 30,000 rabbits at that institution.

The Hillcrest plant is located on Archibald avenue near Nineteenth street and is said to represent an investment of approximately a quarter million dollars. It was established a little more than a year ago.

Mr. Freeman's talk dealt with the rabbit industry in general and with the fur end of the business in particular. He asserted that approximately 90 per cent of all fur on the market today is from rabbits and held the raising of rabbits to be one of the coming industries of this section.

The speaker also laid emphasis on the value of rabbit meat for eating, calling particular attention to its cleanly habits by comparison to chickens, hogs and other animals, whose flesh makes up the daily menus of the average man. Mr. Freeman recited how it is even necessary to remove all dust from the hay which forms the chief article of food for the rabbit.

Owen Atwood, as program chairman, introduced the speaker. Charles V. Barr, club president, was in the chair.

CURRY'S PURCHASE CAMP BALDY CO.

Popular San Antonio Canyon Resort Sold To Big Yosemite Valley Concern

Of wide general interest, not only in Upland, but throughout California, is the announcement today that a deal has just been closed whereby the Camp Curry Co., operators of the far-famed Camp Curry resorts of Yosemite Valley, has purchased the Camp Baldy company, owners of the popular mountain resort and hotel in San Antonio canyon, to the north of this city.

Foster Curry, accompanied by his family, is expected to arrive in a few days to take over the management of Camp Baldy, but Herbert McCulloch, who has been manager of the local resort since the death of his father, C. T. McCulloch, several years ago, will remain at the camp for the coming 30 days to assist the new manager.

While Uplanders will regret the departure of the McCullochs, it is gratifying to know that Camp Baldy will be in such competent hands as those of the Curry people.

JANUARY PERMITS IN UPLAND GAIN

New Record Forecast For February With Many New Structures Planned

January building permits totaled $8,900 in Upland. Five permits were taken out during the month. The past month is usually regarded as one of the low months of the year and much more is expected in building lines from now on.

Permits issued by the city are as follows:

J. J. Strieby, 492 East Tenth street, frame garage, $400.
J. A. Cox, Twelfth avenue, frame dwelling, $2,200.
E. P. House, Twentieth and Mountain, stone garage, $200.
R. F. Leonard, 637 Laurel avenue, two-story stucco dwelling, $5,750.
R. F. Leonard, same address, stucco garage, $250.

Preparations are being made for the erection of a stone dwelling at the corner of Twentieth and Mountain by E. P. House. Three stucco houses are also planned by C. F. Eppler at Twelfth and Euclid. Permits for the erection of these houses will be taken out this month.

HOSPITAL COUNCIL TO MEET IN CITY

Local Institution Will Be Host To Southern California Organization

Members of the Southern California Hospital Council are to hold their February banquet meeting at the San Antonio Community hospital here on the twenty-eighth instant, it was learned yesterday following the return of Mrs. Caroline Vermilye and Mrs. Mae Cable, superintendent and business manager, respectively, of the local institution, from a meeting of the council in Los Angeles.

The dinner meeting in Los Angeles was held Tuesday evening at the Mary Louise tea rooms on West Seventh street. More than 100 members of the organization were in attendance and the gathering proved both interesting and profitable.

The hospital council covers that portion of California from San Diego to Santa Barbara and its membership is made up of hospital superintendents, business managers and executives. G. W. Curtis, superintendent of the Santa Barbara hospital, is president of the organization.

New Dry Cleaning Building Is Model

Described as the best of its kind in Southern California and one that will attract attention as a model, the new dry cleaning plant of the Ideal Cleaners, Tenth street at Third avenue, is today nearly ready for operation and will be used about February 15.

The local plant is the best one ever inspected by J. E. Hadley, assistant state fire chief, in a city the size of Upland, he said on an inspection trip this week. He predicted that other dry cleaners would come here and get the plans to erect similar structures.

With the most modern equipment installed, the plant will have a capacity of cleaning more than 100 garments an hour, according to Roy Karr, one of the proprietors. The cleaning system will provide a capacity of 750 gallons of clarified naphtha every hour.

A new steam drying tumbler, the first of its kind on the coast, will dry 35 suits every 20 minutes. The proprietors are considering erecting a finishing department, a building 30 by 60 feet of Spanish design, facing on Tenth street. This project may follow after the dry cleaning plant is running at capacity.

The new building has been erected in accordance with the strict provisions and specifications provided by the state in a law effective in August. That measure called for a class "A" building, separate from the other cleaning buildings. In the building are three rooms, cleaning room, tumbler room and steam room—with an eight-inch concrete wall between. Every room and every piece of apparatus is protected by a steam fire extinguishing system that is expected to extinguish a blaze in five seconds.

The ventilating system forces fresh air into the building every three minutes.

MANY NEW BOOKS AT PUBLIC LIBRARY

Brief Review Given of Several Books—Librarians Assist Readers

Among the new books that have recently been put in circulation at the Upland library are the following and a brief review of several of this time. Mrs. Lavina B. K. Penley and her assistant, Mrs. Lucy Gorgensen, are always at hand to assist the readers and they make a special effort to help the smaller children in selecting suitable reading.

Bennet, Bugles in the Night.

Bennet, The Vanguard.

Deeping, Kitty.

Ertz, Now East, Now West.

Ervin, The Wayward Man.

Elliot, Hugh Laval.

Hart, The Bellamy Trial.

Lehmann, Dusty Answer.

Mellet, The Ellington Brat.

Ostenso, Mad Carew.

Prouty, Conflict.

Raine, Colorado.

Tracy, Mysterious Disappearance.

Farnham, Rebellion.

Ertz, Wind of Complication.

Mill, In a Yun-nan Courtyard.

Small, Sword and Candle.

Stewart, Cap of Youth.

Breshkowsky, Little Grandmother of the Revolution.

Munro, Social Cliches.

Several volumes of Richard Harding Davis' novels have been added, some titles duplicating those in the library, others new.

The Orphan and Bar 20 Three by Mulford are new to the library, but were published a few years ago.

William Allen White says Rebellion is at last the God-awful truth about the possessive father.

The Cap of Youth is the love story of Robert Louis Stevenson.

Hugh Laval is the story of the Northwest during the days of the pioneers.

Tracy's Mysterious Disappearance furnishes a thrill for the lovers of detective stories, as does The Bellamy Trial.

Sword and Candle is a tale of the founding of Los Angeles, a story of Rivera, who led colonists from Sonora to San Gabriel.

In a Yun-nan courtyard we have a novel of modern China.

Now East, Now West solves a modern problem in a satisfactory way.

The Wind of Complication by the same author is a group of short stories.

Bertha K. Mellett writes interesting stories about young girls, and The Ellington Brat portrays a very lively specimen.

Deeping's Kitty has received many favorable comments from the reviewers. A young girl's solution of her life problem serves as a basis for Dusty Answer.

Conflict is the story of the struggle between conscience and desire.

Arnold Bennett calls his Vanguard a "fantasia." Colorado is a tale of the pioneer days of Colorado.

The Wayward man is a tale of adventure with sharp contrasts between a life at sea and in a quiet shop at home.

The Boy Scout manual for 1928 and West's Lone Scout of the Sky will be of special interest to scouts.

Blackbeard's Island is Boy Scout adventure story.

New books for the children's room displayed with these are: "Sewing Susie," a Civil War story; "The Indian How Book," a very interesting collection of material on Indian life and customs.

David Goes to Baffin Land is another of David's adventures at sea, just as interesting as the others by him.

Nadita (Little Nothing) by Grace Moon is a thrilling story about secret passages and bandits.

Rewards of Reading is a book for those who like to read, not those who wish to dissect everything they read.

The Janitor's Boy is a volume of poem written by a twelve year old girl.

Students of social science will be interested in Fisher's Prohibition at its Worst; Siegfried's America Comes of Age; Van Loom's America; Panunzio's Immigration Crossroads and Soul of an Immigrant.

Boulevard Stop

Failures Checked

In line with a state wide campaign to reduce the ever increasing number of automobile accidents, C. S. Lehman, head of the city traffic police has inaugurated an intensive drive against motorists who fail to observe boulevard stop signals.

The first man to be nabbed in the local safety campaign was J. M. Gaffney of Cucamonga, who, appearing yesterday before Judge George R. Crane, drew a fine of $10, half of which was remitted.

Nearly a score of other motorists are slated to appear for similar offenses and a number of prominent Uplanders are reported to be included in the list.

Failure to observe boulevard stop signals has recently been responsible for several serious accidents hereabouts.

UPLAND LEGION IS DOING GOOD WORK

Troop of Boy Scouts Sponsored by Upland Post—To Be Formed Next Week

The Upland Post American Legion No. 73, will hold its regular meeting in the post's quarters next Tuesday night, the 7th inst. The comrades have a full and important program and the commander is anxious to have a good attendance.

One of the important things to engage attention is the formation of a Boy Scout troop to be sponsored by the post. It seems to be foregone that Harold Stickney will be scout master. All boys above the age of twelve are eligible and the Legion boys are desirous of seeing many present at the organization of the new troop. Be present at 7:30.

The scout committee of the post is composed of Paul Anderson, Robert Morris, Harvey Mc Masters, Carl Riggs, James Burch, Lee Blair and Howard Engle. Increased interest in boys work has been especially active of late, and it will be increased after the new troop is formed. The first practice of the Chaffey district drum and bugle corps was held Tuesday. The boys showed surprising efficiency and gave all present a good time.

Huge Ballot To Go To Voters In Fall

The biggest election ballot in the history of the state will be presented to voters of Upland at next November's general election. Already there are 16 constitutional amendments referred to the people by the 1927 legislature, to say nothing of a flock of initiative proposals and two probable referendum questions up for settlement.

Reapportionment, the political football kicked about by the people and the legislature for the last several years, is due for some more kicking before it gets on the ballot, apparently. This law, which in brief would throw the state senate into control of the farmers and rural districts and the assembly in the hands of the cities, is still in the courts.

The question now to be solved is "shall the referendum be invoked upon the legislature's act?" Los Angeles, San Francisco and Oakland, the cities behind the referendum, are determined to fight it to the last ditch, while the farmers are now in the warpath with the more recent move to block the question from being placed on the ballot. Signatures submitted were obtained fraudulently, the farm bureau and kindred organizations insist.

Then there is the Waggy weight tax law, which imposes a tax on auto trucks in proportion to their weight, which is bitterly opposed by influential interests. The people will settle the question on the ballot next November.

'KIDDERS' BUSY AS PARTY IS PLANNED

Ontario Business Women Invite Their Employers; Wives Not Mentioned

Members of the Ontario Business Women's association were the recipients today of a considerable amount of good-natured "kidding" following their issuance of invitations for an "employers' night" dinner to be held at Hotel Ontario on the evening of Feb. 14.

The chaffing centers about the fact that wives of employers, heretofore included at similar gatherings, are not this time invited to participate. The "kidders" point with high glee to the fact that Valentine's Day of Leap Year has been selected for the coming event to which employers—sans wives—have been bidden.

Miss Dana Williams is president of the Ontario association and Mrs. Alice Dufur is chairman of the committee on arrangements for the coming event. Glenn D. Smith, general manager of the Ontario Power company, is to be the speaker of the evening and some novel entertainment features are being arranged.

from the cause set forth.

I call attention to a fact of great importance when saying, Christianity is attacked as Jesus was, because it seeks what is good, and because it opposes what is evil. The other day some clergyman in New Jersey who lives in an atmosphere of opposition to the Volsted act, made a fierce attack on Christianity. It was copied in the Literary Digest, with much concern, for the thing it said. An examination of the text showed that one-third of the churches which favor the enforcement of the eighteenth amendment. Over and over again this came out. In the anti-slavery days the churches were attacked for favoring the slave holders against the true teachings of the Bible. I thank God that on the temperance question they lead in the assault on liquor and the they joined the big crowd attending the South Dakota picnic, meeting a number of old friends and acquaintances from their old home town, Edgemont, and vicinity.

Mrs. Geo. E. Keyes, accompanied by her brother-in-law, W.
W. Hatch, went to San Bernardino Tuesday, where they visited much improvement at the hospital

The Sunday School Lesson

Edited by Chas. K. Meyers,
Denison, Iowa

Feb. 5. Jesus Misunderstood and Opposed. Mark 3, 19-35; Mark 6, 1-6.

I have been much pleased that our lessons for the new year have been on the life and teachings of Jesus. It means that not alone in the local church, where we may worship, but in the wide world around, attention is called to the same portion of the Bible. Not long ago I complained to a pastor of my church, that Sunday after Sunday not a word was read from his pulpit of the words of Jesus or even a sermon made with the gospel for a text. It is decidedly wrong not to have the words of Jesus kept well before the people.

We are now considering strenuous days in the life of Jesus.
There was fierce opposition to Him. His very good deeds were criticized. He found one form of evil in the world, to be the indwelling in many folks, of a nature, a spirit, which seemed placed there by the devil, and these when called to His attention he cast out. One might naturally suppose that such good deeds salooners. Every adult reader of experience knows that good men and women are undetermined and attacked for standing out for right things. Let a newspaper, a public man, a private citizen, speak right out against Sunday deceit, for law observance opposition to gambling, conduct which breeds immorality, and the many things which class as good citizenship and moral uplift, and they become the target of opposition. The attacks generally come along other lines, than direct, for what it said. Keep your eyes open, and be on the alert to discover what is the true motive for a writer who attacks Jesus and His gospel and the men and women who are trying to make the world conform to the truths of His teachings. I will repeat my former statement to place it full in the minds of my readers:

Christianity is attacked, as Jesus was, because it seeks what is good and because it opposes what is evil.

It might be noted that the great Abraham Lincoln chose for one of his flaming cries against slavery the words of Jesus as given in the lesson for today. "If a house be divided against itself, that house will not be able to stand." Jesus said this as His comment and the accusation made against Him, that He was in league with the devil, because He cast out evil spirits from the people.

It is a familiar but sad thing often heard, "He was stabbed in the house of His friends." In the Bible lesson today the golden text states the same thought in this way: "He came unto His own, and His own received Him not."
If Jesus did not know by divine power as to the treatment He was to receive from the folks of His own village, Nazareth, it must have been a grievous disappointment when He returned to them and was rejected, and even escaped death, at their hands, only by using supernatural power. They resented that one brought up in their streets and homes had attained to such prominence, and

"Get the message through"

IN THE Sixties the "pony express" carried the mail over mountain and Indian wilderness from St.
Joseph, Missouri, to San Francisco. The expres-siders and station keepers won undying fame for getting the message through, regardless of hardship or danger.

In fact and in spirit, the Bell System is the lineal descendant of the pony express. Operators volunteer to remain at their switchboards in the face of fire, flood or other great danger. Linemen go out to repair the lines in time of accident or storm—even at the risk of their lives.

There are no instructions requiring Bell System employees to endanger their lives. It is the spirit of communication that bids them, "Get the message through."

that He set up to teach them truths with authority.

The record tells a fearful story, for it relates that Jesus could there do no mighty works because of opposition and unbelief. In another place there is the same thought expressed, Matt. 8-34, when Jesus is besought to depart from a locality where He had done works of benefit to the inhabitants.

It is said in the Bible that it were better for a milestone to be hanged about one's neck and he be cast into the sea, than for him to offend the little ones who believe in Jesus. Helpful words and deeds would have been outpoured on the people about Nazareth but these came not because of the actions of the folks who heard Jesus that day. It can be said here that men will experience a personal loss when they turn away from Jesus, and further, the indifference of one man to Christ, limits His power to reach others. It is fearful to think of the condemnation which can well fall on men and women who by their talk and example keep others from being Christians.

I make no pretense from week to week to cover all the lesson can well teach. Many a verse contains truth about which a book could be written. In closing this time I will call attention to the golden text. After saying that Jesus came to His own and was not received, it is declared

But as many as received Him to them gave He the right to become children of God, even to them that believe on His name.

The great Paul says: "Now are ye the sons of God." He adds, we are joint heirs with Christ to eternal life and the glories of heaven. Just think of it. This refers to you and me. We can be sons of God and joint heirs with Christ. The offer is free to those who believe on His name. If a lot in a California city was offered free to all who complied with easy conditions, witness the rush to get it. Free lands to be gained by going to the land office and registering, saw men by the thousands thronging the place.
The rule holds on every hand. If each reader truly thought that the promises of Jesus were true, and Paul spoke the bare facts as to the future, what a rush there would be to gain the eternal life.
Now I just believe it is true, and am writing this very paragraph to tell you about it.

Notes of Society

Swiss Yodlers at Womans Club—Those who enjoyed the "Birds Whistling Chorus" that was sponsored recently by the members of the Upland Woman's Club as the third program of their concert course, are looking forward eagerly to the club next concert, which will be held next Tuesday at the club house.

On this date the Tilda Rohr Co. of Swiss Yodlers will present the entertainment and press notices where ever this group has appeared, give them a flattering recommendation.

There are several artists in this company who lay claim to international reputations in the world of music and they will present solo numbers as well as the delightful ensemble selections.

The last concert of the series will be given some time in April and as yet no definite date has been set and the committee in charge are still seeking for a group of musicians who will continue the high standard set by the preceding artists.

Mrs. Hearst Speaks to Group—

That a membership in the American Legion Auxiliary is a privilege, was the statement made by Mrs. Ethel Hearst, state president of the American Legion Auxiliary, speaking before members of the local organization and their friends last evening at the Upland Woman's club house on Second avenue.

Continuing Mrs. Hearst said "Service is the keynote of our auxiliary and one needs but to visit the hospitals for disabled war veterans and nurses, or spend a day at the homes that are being maintained for the children of these unfortunate ones to know that there is much for us to do. Quoting from statistics, the speaker said there are more than ten thousand disabled veterans in California alone, and when one stops to consider that many of these men have families, they perhaps can grasp the significance of just what that means to the organizations who have pledged themselves to "remember." While the American Legion is doing a great work it is up to the women to do the little things that go so far in making life worth while in making the men feel that although they are bedfast, there is still a place for them in the every day affairs of life. Mrs. Hearst possesses the knack of making her audience understand and her personal contact with the disabled men and women makes her a valuable worker.

Mrs. Floyd Atwood, president of the Upland Auxiliary, president at the dinner meeting, introduced Mrs. Hearst and Mrs. Pond of Ontario, who is district chairman of the membership committee.

Mrs. John D. Howe, who accompanied her husband a few months ago to France where they attended the National Legion convention, told of her trip abroad, speaking not so much about the country she had seen as the attitude of the foreign people as it affects American people.

Community singing was enjoyed with Mrs. J. L. Graham leading and Mrs. V. Anderson at the piano. Mrs. Clair Kirk presented several numbers which were heartily enjoyed.

A dinner preceded the program and the reception room where the long tables were placed, was especially decorated for the occasion with masses of cantanorian asters, the same greenery with clusters of red berries and tall red candles, marking the table appointments.

Mrs. I. J. Linkey, chairman of the membership drive, reported fifteen new members who were present and responded to their names by standing, and other chairmen gave interesting reports. Seventy-five members and guests were present and members of the hostess committee included, besides the president, Mrs. Atwood, Mrs. J. L. Graham, Mrs. Vernon Sleuman, Mrs. David Bradford and Mrs. Frank Freeman.

Police Find Two Missing Children

The Upland police force was this week called upon on two different occasions to act in recovering lost children. On Monday the two-year old son of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Salter, who live on Campus avenue, turned up missing for an hour or more. About three-fifths of Upland's police staff started on a search for the little fellow who had disappeared. Officers C. S. Lehman and Everett Carter along with J. Fred Anderson scored the city, at last finding the boy at the corner of Ninth and Washington. He had been in the yard surrounded by a fence at the home of his parents. They did not think he was able to open the gate, but he did so with ease and said he had been out watching the trains go by.

On Tuesday Jackie, three-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Otto Christensen of West Fourteenth street wandered away and his parents could not find him. Officers C. S. Lehman and Harold Anderson with the mother and father, hunted for two hours and a half, but no signs of Jackie. Returning from their search, they found him back at the family home, having just returned from a ride on a lumber wagon. Jackie told the driver his mother said "it would be all right." The senior Christensen settled the matter in the woodshed after the police officers left.

Ask Revocation Of Pool Hall License

Efforts to have the license of "Shorty's" pool hall in the Cucamonga district revoked were under way today following a raid on the place by Upland and Cucamonga officers and the discovery that hard liquor was there being dispensed in coffee pots.

Mrs. Valentina Marquez, who attempted to pour the contents of one coffee pot down a sink at the approach of the officers, pleaded guilty to a charge of violating the Wright act and drew a fine of $50, which she paid.

Jesus Espinosa, who was also taken in the pool room raid and booked as a vagrant, was given a sentence of 30 days in jail, the execution of which was suspended on condition that he keep strictly away from the place and go to work.

The raid was conducted by Deputy Sheriff J. A. Larson and Officers L. E. Kronmeyer, C. S. Lehman, Frank Freeman and others. Entrance was made possible by first nabbing a "lookout" before he could give the alarm.

Soldiers In China Thank Red Cross

Mrs. W. S. Avery, chairman of the Upland chapter of the Red Cross, received a few days ago formal acknowledgement of the Christmas gifts contributed by the local chapter and forwarded through the San Francisco authorities to the marines in China. It will be recalled that the Upland chapter prepared Christmas bags which contained articles designed to cheer the soldier boys encamped so far from home. The "bags" were filled with choice selections by the ladies and the letter just received is evidence that they reached their destination and helped to make the day merry for the soldiers.

The letter, from Arthur S. Champany, captain of company L, 15th U. S. Infantry, under date of Tientsin, China, January 1, and addressed to the Upland Chapter Red Cross says: "I wish to thank you in behalf of Company L Infantry for remembering our soldiers on Christmas Day. The presents were appreciated very much and helped greatly in making it a Merry Christmas."

At the time the "bags" were filled some of the members enclosed cards with greetings of the season. A number of these cards were returned with the letter and bore the signatures of a number of the boys in that distant post. One of the boys wrote an interesting letter in response to a card that she had sent with her greetings.

The Red Cross has done wonderful work in reaching to remote parts of the earth with its benefactions and the Upland members feel fully repaid for the pains they took in sending cheer to the soldiers so far away.
